Protection against unexpected lease-end expenses.

Does Lease Excess Wear & Tear Protection Make Sense For Me?

Over the term of your lease, you will experience normal wear and tear as a result of everyday usage. While some normal wear and tear is expected, excess wear and tear may also occur and can result in additional charges you were not expecting to pay at the end of your lease term.

Lease Excess Wear & Tear Protection can help protect you against unwanted or unexpected expenses.

We've Got You Covered

The Lease Excess Wear & Tear Protection addendum is attached to your auto lease agreement and relieves you of the financial responsibility of up to $7,500 of excess wear and tear charges as specified and defined in your auto lease agreement.

Your auto lease agreement holds you responsible for the condition of your vehicle's interior and exterior at the time of turn in; excess wear and tear means extra charges.

12 Month Early Termination: You have the option to turn in your leased vehicle up to 12 months before your original lease termination date. For reimbursement consideration, you must contact the administrator within 60 days of surrendering the vehicle for the final lease turn in.

Don't let the little things add up to a big, unexpected expense at the end of your lease.

From Start To Finish

Select the Lease Excess Wear & Tear Protection at lease inception.

Enjoy care-free driving for the term of your leased vehicle.

Turn in your leased vehicle at the conclusion of your term, based on your auto lease agreement.

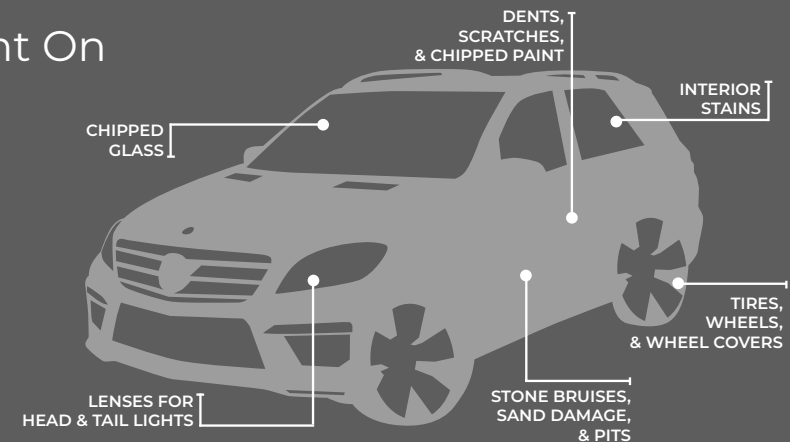

Less your deductible, you are relieved of the financial responsibility up to $7,500 of excess wear and tear charges as specified and defined in your auto lease agreement.

Protection You Can Count On

Traditional auto insurance pays for certain types of damage to your vehicle, however it does not pay for excess wear and tear on your leased vehicle.

Lease Excess Wear & Tear Protection is designed to help guard you against costs associated with:
